Dear Parent/Guardian of a New Student:

We look forward to enrolling your student at Bethel School District. In order to ensure that your student begins on a positive note, we need to pass along information to you. Washington law requires that students with life-threatening health conditions have medication and/or treatment orders, as well as a nursing plan, in place before they may attend school.

A life-threatening health condition is defined as a medical condition which may put the student in danger of death during the school day. This may include conditions such as severe allergies (e.g. food, insect, etc.), severe asthma, and insulin-dependent diabetes as well as other medical diagnoses.

If your child has a condition which might be considered life threatening, please contact your school nurse. She will work with you to arrange the forms, medications, equipment, nursing plans, etc. so that your child may begin school in a timely manner.

Sincerely,

Robert Maxwell
Executive Director for Special Services
